

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 11TH, 2020 MORNING MESSAGE

TRANSITIONAL PASTOR TED LAND

BRADENTON, FLORIDA

Greetings in Christ Jesus!

I borrowed the title for this morning's sermon from a movie, which was actually based on a book...

One of the questions I've been asked many times over the last fifty years is about whether there is a hope of heaven for pets, for beloved animals. In this morning's sermon, I'm quoting Christian thinkers from several different denominations, and poets and authors and even a humorist or two.

We miss our loved ones when we are separated from them. Most folks I know who are animal lovers feel the same way about their pets as they do about their family and friends. They love them. They enjoy their company. They turn to them for comfort in times of stress and distress.

Thomas (aka/Doubting Thomas) asked Jesus: "Lord, to whom shall we go?" Do dogs go to heaven? Is there a place for them?

This morning's sermon attempts to answer that question.

Your Transitional Pastor,

Ted Land
